

Hengtian's Growing Partnership with a Top Chinese Commercial Bank

Overview of the Client

The client is a Global Fortune 500 company and one of the largest commercial banks in China.

Services Provided

The client initiated the first R&D attempt based on Basal II in China, developing a global market risk management system in line with the new Basal Supervision Capital Agreement in 2009.

Hengtian established cooperation with the client in early 2010, joining the client's project team as senior external resources in the research and development of the system along with world leading consulting companies.

With its outstanding R&D standard and practicability, the system was awarded the first prize at the "2012 Bank Science and Technology Development Awards" hosted by People's Bank of China.

Hengtian's excellent performance in this project won the client's high praises, therefore laying down a solid foundation for the expansion of the cooperation. Now the services provided by Hengtian to the client have covered the full product line of the financial market, including:

- Front-office quotation engine and financial market transaction management
- Middle-office product control and risk management
- Back-office global operation management system

Voice of the Client

“Your employees have a fight in them. They never complain but brave up towards difficulties and challenges.”

—Client R&D Department Manager